26 Acres TO TODAY

With a rich past dating back over 200 years, Cabarrus County's history is one of individuality, hard work and collaboration.

After fighting for independence from neighboring Mecklenburg County, the government was organized but a dispute continued for years over where the county seat would be located. Once a resolution was reached, the new city was founded in 1796 on a 26-acre tract of land. The city was named Concord and the first road called Union in honor of the accord.

TODAY, CABARRUS COUNTY THRIVES WITH THE SAME SPIRIT.

The Historic Cabarrus County Courthouse is a flourishing center for the arts located in Concord's quaint downtown. In Kannapolis, the city's textile mill history has transitioned to nutrition-focused research. The towns of Harrisburg, Midland and Mt. Pleasant each add their own appeal with small town charm, natural beauty, and gold mining history. While these and so many other exciting experiences make up the narrative of this destination, motorsports heritage continues to be the exclamation point on Cabarrus County's story.

You're invited to experience the area's storied past and be part of a limitless future.

Here are 10 of Cabarrus County's most exciting experiences. Take this list and run with it! For an action-packed vacation, fasten your seatbelt and see how many you can check off during your trip.

1. GEAR UP FOR RACE WEEKS WITH 600 FESTIVAL

In Cabarrus County, racing festivities begin long before the green flag drops. Jacqueline Gafrarar and the team at CSM Production put on 600 Festival, a series of family-friendly events that kick off race weekends at Charlotte Motor Speedway. In Concord, fans line the street to welcome NASCAR Cup Series haulers headed to the track during the Haulers on Union Parade. In conjunction with Jiggy with the Piggy barbecue festival in Kannapolis, friends gather for a show under the stars during Movies on the Campus, and kids race their own veggie car creations at the Zucchini 600. The Kids Zone at Jiggy showcases more of racing's youngest talent with cars on display and driver autographs. Jacqueline's son, Caleb is part of this next generation of drivers. At just nine years old, he is a talented kart racer giving fans another reason to get on their feet. Several of the sport's stars like Ryan Blaney launched careers at Charlotte Motor Speedway, adding to the area's reputation of "Where Racing Lives."

2. PEEK INSIDE THE PERFORMANCE RACING NETWORK

When she's not pushing limits in the gym as a Certified Personal Trainer, Wendy Venturini brings fans action from the track each week as a booth announcer and pit reporter with the Performance Racing Network. Born into a family of racers, her love for the sport began early and has evolved into a passion that's led her to become one of the most dynamic women in motorsports. You can catch Wendy on the air or get a glimpse of the PRN studio during Charlotte Motor Speedway's Over the Wall tour. Daily tours are the perfect way to see it all even when it's not a NASCAR race weekend. Learn the track's history, cruise down pit road, feel the full-tilt force of the 24-degree banking and more. Plus, stop in Winner's Circle for a photo opportunity and visit zMAX Dragway and The Dirt Track. Charlotte Motor Speedway also offers special race week tours. The Race Shop Tour and Laps and Taps Tour both include stops that are essential to the full Cabarrus County experience.

3. BE FLOORED BY AN EVENT AT CHARLOTTE MOTOR SPEEDWAY

Executive Vice President, Greg Walter and the entire crew at Charlotte Motor Speedway make the most awe-inspiring events look effortless. Along with three of the most anticipated races on the Monster Energy NASCAR Cup Series calendar, CMS hosts NASCAR Xfinity and Camping World Truck Series events each year. But that's not all. The Speedway megaplex includes zMAX Dragway and The Dirt Track at Charlotte which host prestigious races including the NHRA Four-Wide Nationals and World of Outlaws World Finals. And don't forget AutoFair, the world's largest automotive extravaganza and the Summer Shootout—a grassroots racing series complete with fireworks and fun races like the School Bus Slobberknocker and Mascot Mania. From military tributes at the Largest Memorial Day Celebration to the 3-million twinkling lights of Speedway Christmas, a tremendous amount of thought and hard work goes into creating unreal experiences for visitors. For more details on CMS, check out pages 58-61.

4. STEP INSIDE WHERE IT ALL BEGINS AT NASCAR RACE SHOPS

NASCAR Race Shops are essential to what makes Cabarrus County one of the world's premiere motorsports destinations. Inside these cutting-edge facilities, crew member's like Stewart-Haas Racing's Ryan Mulder are hard at work preparing for the next race. Ryan and so many dedicated team members like him make the action on the track possible. So, before you take a seat in the grandstands, bring the experience full circle by stopping by one of the shops. See how everything comes together in fan viewing areas, then explore history and pick up souvenirs inside Museums & Teams Stores.

At SHR, the massive windows make you feel as if you're inside the machine shop, and nostalgic racing portraits and trophies tell a deeper story of the drivers. Along with Stewart-Haas, other shops like Chip Ganassi Racing, Hendrick Motorsports and Roush Fenway Racing and are located within minutes of Charlotte Motor Speedway and welcome fans free of charge.

5. DRIVE A REAL STOCK CAR

Ready to try your hand behind the wheel? Whip through the banked corners of legendary Charlotte Motor Speedway from the driver's seat. Driving 101 founder Bob Lutz and his wife Heather operate the most immersive racing experiences. Both the Richard Petty Driving Experience and NASCAR Racing Experience put you in the shoes of a NASCAR driver. Attend the driver's meeting with a crew chief and utilize in-car radio communications with a personal spotter during your laps around the track. Prefer to be a passenger? There are several options to ride along. For an open-wheel experience, try the Mario Andretti Racing Experience. The Indy-style cars are another intense way to satisfy your need for speed. Either way, Bob and Heather provide excellent opportunities for you to feel the horsepower firsthand. Strap in and get ready for the ride of your life!

6. TAKE A DRAGSTER THRILL RIDE

Next door at zMAX Dragway, North Carolina native Roy Hill makes it possible for you to get inside a dragster and slingshot down the first four-wide dragstrip in the world. Roy is a legend in the sport of drag racing and his passion led to the creation of Roy Hill's Drag Racing School in 1989. He's been teaching the art ever since. Rushing down the same dragstrip where the pros hit speeds of 330mph as they race four-wide is a thrill like none other. Top Fuel NHRA licensed driver Doug Foley also offers the chance for you to ride or drive in a dragster. A family affair, Doug's racing journey led him to launch Pure Speed Racing Experience. No matter when you decide to strap in side-by-side and take the ride of your life, be sure to mark your calendar for the NHRA Four-Wide Nationals in the spring and NHRA Carolina Nationals in the fall.

7. CHALLENGE YOUR FRIENDS ON THE TRACK

Karting is the key to fast fun. At K1 Speed, Jonathon Heitzman helps riders of all skill levels experience indoor kart racing. Just arrive and drive! The environmentally-friendly electric karts let racers start at their own pace. Be prepared for a full work out as you navigate a challenging combination of twists and turns through Concord's two professionally designed courses. After the thrill of crossing the finish line, grab a picture on the podium and kick back in the Pit Café. Since these machines don't emit exhaust fumes and are pretty quiet, the atmosphere at K1 is ideal for relaxing as a spectator. The setting also makes it a popular spot for birthday parties and other group celebrations. So, for a weatherproof afternoon of driving excitement, round up all of your friends who have a lead foot and go see Jonathon at K1.

8. SPLASH INTO YEAR-ROUND FUN AT GREAT WOLF LODGE

More indoor excitement awaits at the largest indoor water park in the Carolinas. Take the plunge down Howlin' Tornado, twist and turn through River Canyon Run, and continue the racing theme down Mountain Edge Raceway. There are rides and slides for all ages at Great Wolf Lodge, and lifeguards like Autumn Miller watch over the indoor water park. Constantly scanning the scene, it's not uncommon to see guests giddy with anticipation before the Fort Mackenzie Tipping Bucket splashes down. While she and her pack ensure every guest has a great time in the year-round 84-degree water park, the rest of the Great Wolf crew coordinates a slew of exciting activities. From Story Time and the Great Clock Tower show to bowling inside Ten Paw Alley and high-flying fun outside at the Howlers Peak Ropes Course, the fun is endless. But with suites just steps away from all the attractions, your family can make the most of vacation time and get back to the action bright and early then next day.

9. HEAD OUTDOORS WITH CAPSTONE

Looking for some fresh air? Expert outdoorsman Lenny Stallings is ready to show you the ropes—literally. On a mission to promote healthy human connections through outdoor adventure, Capstone Climbing & Adventure offers excursions and programs for groups. Make reservations for you and your crew to experience the high and low-ropes courses, go canoeing and flat-water kayaking on the Rocky River, or rock climbing at more of North Carolina's scenic settings in the region. With a focus on environmental education, they help visitors explore many sections of the Carolina Thread Trail—a developing regional network of greenways, trails and blueways that reaches 15 counties, 2 states and 2.3 million people. A number of these exist in Cabarrus County for anyone looking to get active. Whether you want to hike, bike, paddle or walk, places like the Pharr Family Preserve, which runs through a protected alluvial forest along the Rocky River, are the ideal spots to start.

10. EXPLORE UNDERGROUND MINE TUNNELS AT REED GOLD MINE

Cabarrus County has plenty of beautiful outdoor spots to connect with nature, but none are quite like Reed Gold Mine. Located in the small town of Midland, America's first documented discovery of gold happened here in 1799 when 12-year-old Conrad Reed found a 17-pound gold nugget. After using it as a doorstop for three years, Conrad's father John Reed sold the nugget to a jeweler in Fayetteville for $3.50. As one of the state's most unique attractions, the site has since welcomed over 2,000,000 visitors since opening in 1977. Today, Reed Gold Mine is the only underground mine open to the public in North Carolina. Site Manager, Larry Neal is in the know on all things gold and waiting to share this rich history and interactive experience with you. Tour the museum, see the ore-crushing stamp mill in action, walk through several hundred feet of underground mine tunnels and pan for gold from April to October. You can even keep what you find!

Wondering what the thrill seekers have in store this year? Join us in Cabarrus County to find out! A full list of area events starts on page 72.

Neighborhood GOODS

Like a song or smell, keepsakes can bring back a special moment in time. And just like the memories they represent, no two are alike. Here are a few of the creators in Cabarrus County who are hand-crafting the kind of unique souvenirs that everyone asks about once you return home. It's a good thing sharing the stories behind them never gets old.

With plenty of options for area-branded goodies, the Visitor Center is the perfect place to start when stocking up on souvenirs. Just steps away, Mistie Doren carefully curates her independent boutique, Lewie & Berg. Along with items like her own signature creation—a crocheted octopus that couldn't be cuter—she carries local and regionally-sourced goods from soap to scarves.

In a creative space splashed with color from his last order, Adam Miller puts his artistic edge to work designing custom screen-printed t-shirts. Keep an eye out for the Da Vin Tee Mobile T-shirt Print Shop, and find his creations at Hive, a nearby boutique on North Union Street in Historic Downtown Concord. Owner, Michelle Pentoney offers local products like Adam's quirky and cool tees along with workshops where you can get crafty with your crew.

Next door, Kathleen Reeder—better known as The Bead Lady—is the source for what's sure to become one of your most prized possessions. Kathleen can transform fresh or dried flowers into jewelry. These memory flower beads make the ultimate memento.

A few doors down, Cindy Sheppard is tucked inside ShoeBeeDo surrounded by stacks of leather. Another one of the #MakersOnNorthUnion, she's been making shoes for over a decade. Walking into her shop and watching her work is a real treat.

Cabarrus County is also home to many talented creators in the music industry. The area's history inspired Concord native Dolph Ramseur to pursue a career in music and create independent record label and management company, Ramseur Records. Today he and his team represent incredibly talented artists including Cabarrus County-based band, The Avett Brothers. The Avett family plays a significant role in the area's music story, and the band was inducted into the North Carolina Music Hall of Fame in 2016. Here, Veronica Cordle curates our state's musical heritage and welcomes guests to the annual Induction Ceremony each year.

That music story spills over onto the stage of the Davis Theatre and into The Galleries below where Noelle Rhodes Scott carries out the Cabarrus Arts Council's mission of "energizing our community through arts excellence." There is nothing quite like finding the perfect piece in the Gallery Shop or experiencing a special evening complete with dinner and a show in Historic Downtown Concord.

Speaking of something to eat, Ritchie Hill Bakery Cheese Straws are an essential southern snack you don't want to miss out on. The 100-year-old family recipe has been passed down over generations and can be found at specialty stores around Cabarrus County, and they're shipped all over the country.

Photographs are perhaps the most essential souvenir. Mike of Michael A Anderson Photography continuously captures all of Cabarrus County's creative magic. His work can be seen on the cover and throughout the pages of this guide and is frequently shared on Visit Cabarrus social media channels.

Created in Cabarrus, these special products and experiences stem from the inspired citizens of this community. No matter what you choose to take home, a special story is bound to be part of the package.

FROM CABARRUS: THE AVETTS

Cabarrus County is the home of the Avett family, including Seth and Scott, the duo behind GRAMMY-nominated folk-rock band The Avett Brothers. Whether you're a longtime member of the Avett Guild or just discovering their unique sound, here are five stops to explore their roots in Cabarrus County.

CLINE'S COUNTRY ANTIQUES

11839 NC-49, Mt. Pleasant, NC 28124
704-436-6824 // clinesantiquesmpnc.com
If you're like us and "February Seven" is at the top of your essential Avett play list, you must visit Cline's. In 1977, Donald Cline opened the sprawling antique yard where the music video for track number six on the album, The Carpenter was filmed. Acres of vintage finds cover the Carolina countryside and beg to be rummaged through. So, follow NC-49 to the big white sign, play dress up, revive your own antique instrument, and then get rested and ready for the next adventure.

THE DAVIS THEATRE

65 Union St S, Concord, NC 28025
704-920-2787 // cabarrusartscouncil.org
Each year, Cabarrus County native Jim Avett returns to the stage of the Davis Theatre often with his daughter, Bonnie, for an evening of original ballads and storytelling. In the past, his sons have also popped in for a surprise family performance. An evening with the Avetts in their hometown is an exceptional experience, and the intimate 227-seat Davis Theatre is a venue that matches the occasion. Dine in Downtown before the show and let the restaurant know you're attending. They'll suggest a reservation time to assure you get to the theatre 15 minutes before curtain.

ELMA C. LOMAX INCUBATOR FARM

3445 Atando Rd, Concord, NC 28025
704-920-2206 // carolinafarmstewards.org/lomax-farm
Lomax Farm is the only certified organic incubator farm in the Southeast and one of few in the nation. When unexpected budget cuts almost caused the farm to close in 2014, support from locals like Scott Avett allowed Lomax to continue growing the next generation of organic farmers through hands-on learning experiences and access to resources like land and equipment. Want to dig in and make a difference? Community workdays are held by appointment for groups, and individual volunteers are welcome on Tuesdays and Fridays.

MULLIS MUSIC

704-788-2515 // mullismusic.com
In sharing the band's history on TheAvettBrothers.com, Seth Avett writes, "They received piano lessons from a woman named Karen, guitar from a man named Nelson, and banjo from a man named Ned (all of the talented Concord, NC-based Mullis family)." In business for over 30 years, Mullis Music still offers lessons in Historic Downtown Concord. They're also known for some of the finest vintage guitars around and have sold to stars including guitarist Andy Summers of The Police and Tom Peterson, bassist for Cheap Trick.

NORTH CAROLINA MUSIC HALL OF FAME

600 Dale Earnhardt Blvd, Kannapolis, NC 28081
704-934-2320 // northcarolinamusicchalloffame.org
In 2016, The Avett Brothers were inducted into Kannapolis-based North Carolina Music Hall of Fame. Each October, a new class of our state's music industry greats are recognized at the annual Induction Ceremony. During the event, officials honored the group with a special landmark. Soon, visitors entering the county will be greeted with a sign reading "Cabarrus County - Home of The Avett Brothers."

Must-Try Meals

From global flavors and family recipes to gatherings and an all-important Carolina go-to, food is an essential part of the Cabarrus County experience.

In the dining room or on the go, talented chefs are serving up hearty comfort food, traditional southern classics, tempting treats and beyond. We asked a few of them which dish on their menu is the must-try meal. Here's a list of locally made fare that's not to be missed.

Let's start with the most important meal of the day.

For breakfast that'll blow you away, try OMG Donuts & Bakery. "The most popular item on our menu is the Apple Fritter," says owner Mia Shoe Chang. "It's a perfect ratio of yeast dough and apple chunks cooked crispy on the edges and fluffy on the inside. Like all our donuts, the fritters are handmade fresh every day." We may never know how Mia manages to pull off the perfect pastries, but you donut want to miss out.

We didn't need to ask chef and owner, Dana Sweat which item was number one at Carm's Café. Stop in for lunch and you'll repeatedly hear patrons ask for a scoop of the Avocado Chicken Salad. It's also written in bold on their menu, and for good reason. The perfect balance of creamy and crunchy, this choice is good in a wrap, as part of the Cold Salad Trio or by the pound in case you can't get enough.

Homecooked staples are the fuel that keeps this community running in the fast lane. Other local favorites to try are Cabarrus County's iconic What-A-Burger, Harrisburg Family House and 2 Gals Kitchen in Downtown Concord.

With the area's largest concentration of independently-owned restaurants, Historic Downtown Concord is perfect for breakfast on the weekend, a quick lunch, and special evenings on the town.

Inside one of the twinkling windows along Union Street, owner Gianni and Executive Chef Heather Stadler of Gianni's Trattoria are creating inspired European-style meals with both local and imported ingredients. "One of our most popular menu items is our Bone-In Veal Stuffed Veal Chop," says Stadler. "We actually cut it off the chop to order, french it and then pocket and stuff it before it even hits the pan. The ability to cut our meats to order, including our steaks and our pork, enables the meat to maintain its freshness and quality, and that carries over into the actual taste of the meat." Put this authentic Italian restaurant on your list for local flavor.

Other stops with an upscale atmosphere include Union Street Bistro in Downtown Concord, Forty Six in Downtown Kannapolis, and 73 & Main, located in the Historic Mount Pleasant Hosiery Mill. Guests can also experience The Speedway Club at Charlotte Motor Speedway twice a year during Charlotte Restaurant Week and during Speedway Christmas. Make reservations early to dine above the track in this awe-inspiring setting.

More international cuisine can be found at Havana Carolina. Perfectly cooked Cuban dishes like Ropa Vieja and the classic El Cubano pressed Cuban sandwich are served with sides including congris, yuca and tostones. And over at Enoodles, Karen and Alex are serving up seriously flavorful food that keeps the locals coming back. For more than 10 years, this family-run Asian Bistro has satisfied the community's craving for dim sum, wok fried noodles, broth bowls, sushi and more. Save room for dessert—the Tempura Fried Oreos are out of this world.

Along with these global flavors, the area's food scene features a critical North Carolina cuisine. Barbecue is a tradition that many people are passionate about here in the Old North State. Whether it's whole-hog eastern-style with vinegar sauce or chopped, tomato-based western-style, the debate rages on. From longtime favorites R&R BBQ and Troutman's to the Alabama influence at Jim 'N Nick's Bar-B-Que, there are many delicious versions in Cabarrus County.

But partners Devin Barbee, Jeremy Beaver and Joey Graham of The Smoke Pit are mixing it up. When we asked which plate reigns supreme, Joey says it's whatever is sold out first. Despite cooking all they can on the weekend, The Smoke Pit still sells out every Friday and Saturday. It's a safe bet that one of what he calls the "big three" will be gone first—Pork ribs, Texas brisket and North Carolina pulled pork. Along with the mains, this crew stays busy concocting seven rubs, six sauces and scratch-made sides. With Concord as its first, the restaurant now has locations in nearby Salisbury and Monroe and tends to a robust catering business in the region.

No matter the destination, nothing brings people together quite like food. So we can't forget about gatherings in Cabarrus County. In 1998, Kannapolis native Kristin Rodgers took on a labor of love, Doughgirls Catering, originally founded in 1981 by her mother and two friends. From weddings and reunions to other special celebrations, clients rave about their Parmesan Crusted Chicken and Party Potato Casserole. But the real star of a Doughgirls spread? "People go nuts over our brownies!" says Kristin.

But before we dive into dessert, let's not forget gatherings on the go. In addition to making regular appearances at Cabarrus County Food Truck Friday events, Comfort Foods on Wheels can drop in and make any get together delicious. Edwina Corprew's menu is "designed to remind you of meals Momma used to make." Favorites like Shrimp & Grits and Chicken & Waffles will have you chasing this truck down anytime you get the chance.

Husband and wife team Jean Luc and Ann Marie Barrucand pair as well as the wine and delicate desserts sold inside their French bakery. At Chocolatier Barrucand, guests can also enjoy a sandwich and take home imported French items from their Parisian market, Le Bon Vivant. "Oreo cheesecake is our biggest seller, but everything we make is special," says Ann Marie. It's not hard to understand why. The meticulously crafted confections are what make this specialty spot a must-try.

One of the latest sugary shops in town, C3, serves up a trifecta of treats. Cynthia Echevarria is keeping it sweet with made to order crepes, coffee and luxurious nitrogen ice cream. Established in April 2017, C3 has residents falling for a popular crepe called the Carolina Love. What's not to love about fresh strawberries, biscoff cookie butter, a drizzle of maple syrup and homemade whipped cream? "The most popular ice cream is our Signature Oreo Delight," says Cynthia. "It just seems like everyone loves Oreos." True.

Other essential sweets include homemade ice cream from Cabarrus Creamery, ready-to-eat cookie dough at Cookie Dough Bliss, larger-than-life cupcakes from The Sweet Life, and classic specialty desserts from DOUGH New York Style Bakery.

Are you hungry yet? No matter what adventure comes next, one thing is for certain—You'll find the food to fuel it in Cabarrus County. See pages 32-41 for a full listing of Places to Eat.

A Story IN EVERY SIP

SOCIAL SPOTTER

As you sample at each stop, snap photos and use #RaceToTaste to share your favorites!

North Carolina is home to over 500 vineyards, 185 wineries, a growing list of distilleries, and more than 258 breweries and brewpubs—the largest number of craft breweries in the American South. Cabarrus County contributes to those impressive statistics with a thriving craft beverage community all its own.

Stock car racing began during the Prohibition Era when “moonshine runners” delivered illegal whiskey with souped up cars and reputations for outsmarting and outriving the law. Today, the storied history of stock car racing continues to grow within these county lines, and Leanne Powell is making it possible to taste a little bit of that history. Southern Grace Distilleries is crafting award-winning small-batch spirits in a setting you won’t soon forget. Housed inside the former Cabarrus Correctional Facility built in 1929, “Whiskey Prison” has given new purpose to a vacant building while pursuing a passion and giving back.

Launched in 2014, Southern Grace Distilleries crafts Sun Dog 130—a corn whiskey that has won five medals, including Gold at the San Diego Spirits Competition, Gold at the Fifty Best American Whiskeys Competition and Silver at the American Craft Spirits Competition. Mia, the beloved canine friend of co-founder, Thomas Thacker, was the inspiration for the label. Mia passed away in 2013 but lives on in hearts and on the label of Sun Dog. For each bottle sold, Southern Grace donates a portion of sales to an animal shelter. Many other Southern Grace products also give back.

In October 2016, Southern Grace Distilleries made history by becoming the first fully licensed distillery in America to operate in a former prison today. After moving the expanding operation from Concord to Mt. Pleasant, the distillery now offers tours and tastings inside the old jail. Go behind bars, learn the prison’s history, see how the team crafts award-winning whiskey, and take your mug shot!

Before Leanne’s liquor, Robert Burrage established Lil’ Robert’s Place in the heart of Historic Downtown Concord. Known as the community’s pioneer of craft beer, Robert and his bar and bottle shop recently celebrated eight years. Along with food trucks and live music from the locals, you’ll find over 500 different craft, micro and imported beers with 20 rotating tap selections and over 60 wines. The eclectic atmosphere and funky décor makes Lil’ Rob’s an easy spot to kick back and unwind.

TJ Creighton achieved another milestone when he opened the very first brewery in Concord. High Branch Brewing Co. is a family-run, artisanal brewery located in the industrial Gibson Mill. They’ve created a laid-back space to relax, socialize and enjoy a drink along with regular live music, cool events and food trucks. TJ began as a homebrewer, and he’s always reaching for the “higher branch,” striving to use local ingredients and develop relationships with farmers and other small businesses. His small batch brews rotate weekly and feature seasonal flavors.

Next door at Concord’s first full-scale craft brewery, Steve Steinbacher and his team are melding local history, character and traditions with locally produced beer of the highest quality. Cabarrus Brewing Company originated from a passion for craft beer and the sense of community it represents, so it’s no surprise to find long, communal tables inside the taproom and an outdoor beer garden that brings everyone together. From planting trees to creating 600 Ale—Charlotte Motor Speedway’s officially licensed beer—CBC approaches everything they do with the community in mind. Here, each beer tells a different story in Cabarrus County history, including Reed's Gold Ale, a reference to Reed Gold Mine—the site of the first gold discovered in America.

Even more of the area's history can be discovered through beer at Twenty-Six Acres Brewing Company. In the late 1700's, a disagreement over where the seat of newly formed Cabarrus County should be located led to a compromise and a new city founded on a 26-acre site. The city was named Concord, meaning "harmony," to reflect the spirit of resolution and unity. A collaboration between friends, owner, Joel Padgett and head brewer, Eric Troutman craft a variety of brews including two flagship beers — Corban Ave. Honey Blonde and 26 Union St. Oatmeal Stout. The 8,800 square foot brewery features a spacious, modern tap-room perfect for sharing a pint with your pals.

THREE COMMON THEMES EMERGE WHEN CONSIDERING BEER IN CABARRUS COUNTY—QUALITY, HISTORY AND FRIENDSHIP.

Friendship between a crossfitter, an ice cream maker and a home-brewer led to the creation of Red Hill Brewing Company. Entering through the back door and up a set of stairs gives this Downtown Concord brewery a speakeasy feel. The brewery's name stems from the Red Hill Plantation House, a tavern and inn where George Washington once stayed located on nearby Poplar Tent Road. While keeping local history alive with the brewery's name, Chris Abney and his crew are also giving life to good beer, offering eats from nearby independent restaurants like Carm's Café, and welcoming guests with a comfortable, community-focused atmosphere.

At Commoners Brewing Company, the neighborhood vibe is no different. In fact, the crew at Commoners encourages everyone to "become part of the story." It's easy to do in such an inviting atmosphere. The open patio offers plenty of space to spread out, and up the stairs, the balcony is the ideal spot to watch the Carolina sun sink while warming up by the fire pit. Brew master, Thomas Murray keeps the taps full of flavorful choices, but if you can't decide which to order, try a flight. A few taster glasses are the way to go before ordering a full pint. Once you find a favorite, take a growler to go.

Did you know that North Carolina is the only place in the world where every major type of grape is grown? In downtown or cruising through the countryside, you'll find fine wine and the perfect pairings.

Deb Filkins and the friendly folks at Cougar Run Winery have turned their hobby into a way of life. Offering handcrafted wines made in small batches, this pet friendly winery hosts tours of up to ten people. Interested in the art? Cougar Run is also a retailer of wine making equipment. Stop in for a few samples and be sure to ask where the company's name came from.

Whether you have been enjoying wine for decades or you're just beginning to appreciate fine wine, you will feel completely at ease at Cabo Winery. Less than 30 minutes away from Downtown Concord, Midland, NC is home to family-owned Rocky River Vineyards. Pack a picnic basket and sample Muscadine wines, Chardonnay, Merlot and others at the tasting bar. Lounge on the porch or take the self-guided walking tour—the map is complete with a list of creatures you're likely to meet along the way. Another short drive down rural Cabarrus roads will lead you to family-owned Douglas Vineyards. They welcome guests on the weekends to kick back on the porch and listen to live music.

So, the next time you raise your glass, know that each drop inside is the result of passion, pride and a love of community.

Live to Race!

RUNNING ON RACING

Every destination has its own signature. In Cabarrus County, it's motorsports.

During prohibition, moonshiners needed to outrun the law to deliver illegal whiskey. These souped up cars and skilled drivers eventually made their way onto the track, and stock car racing was born.

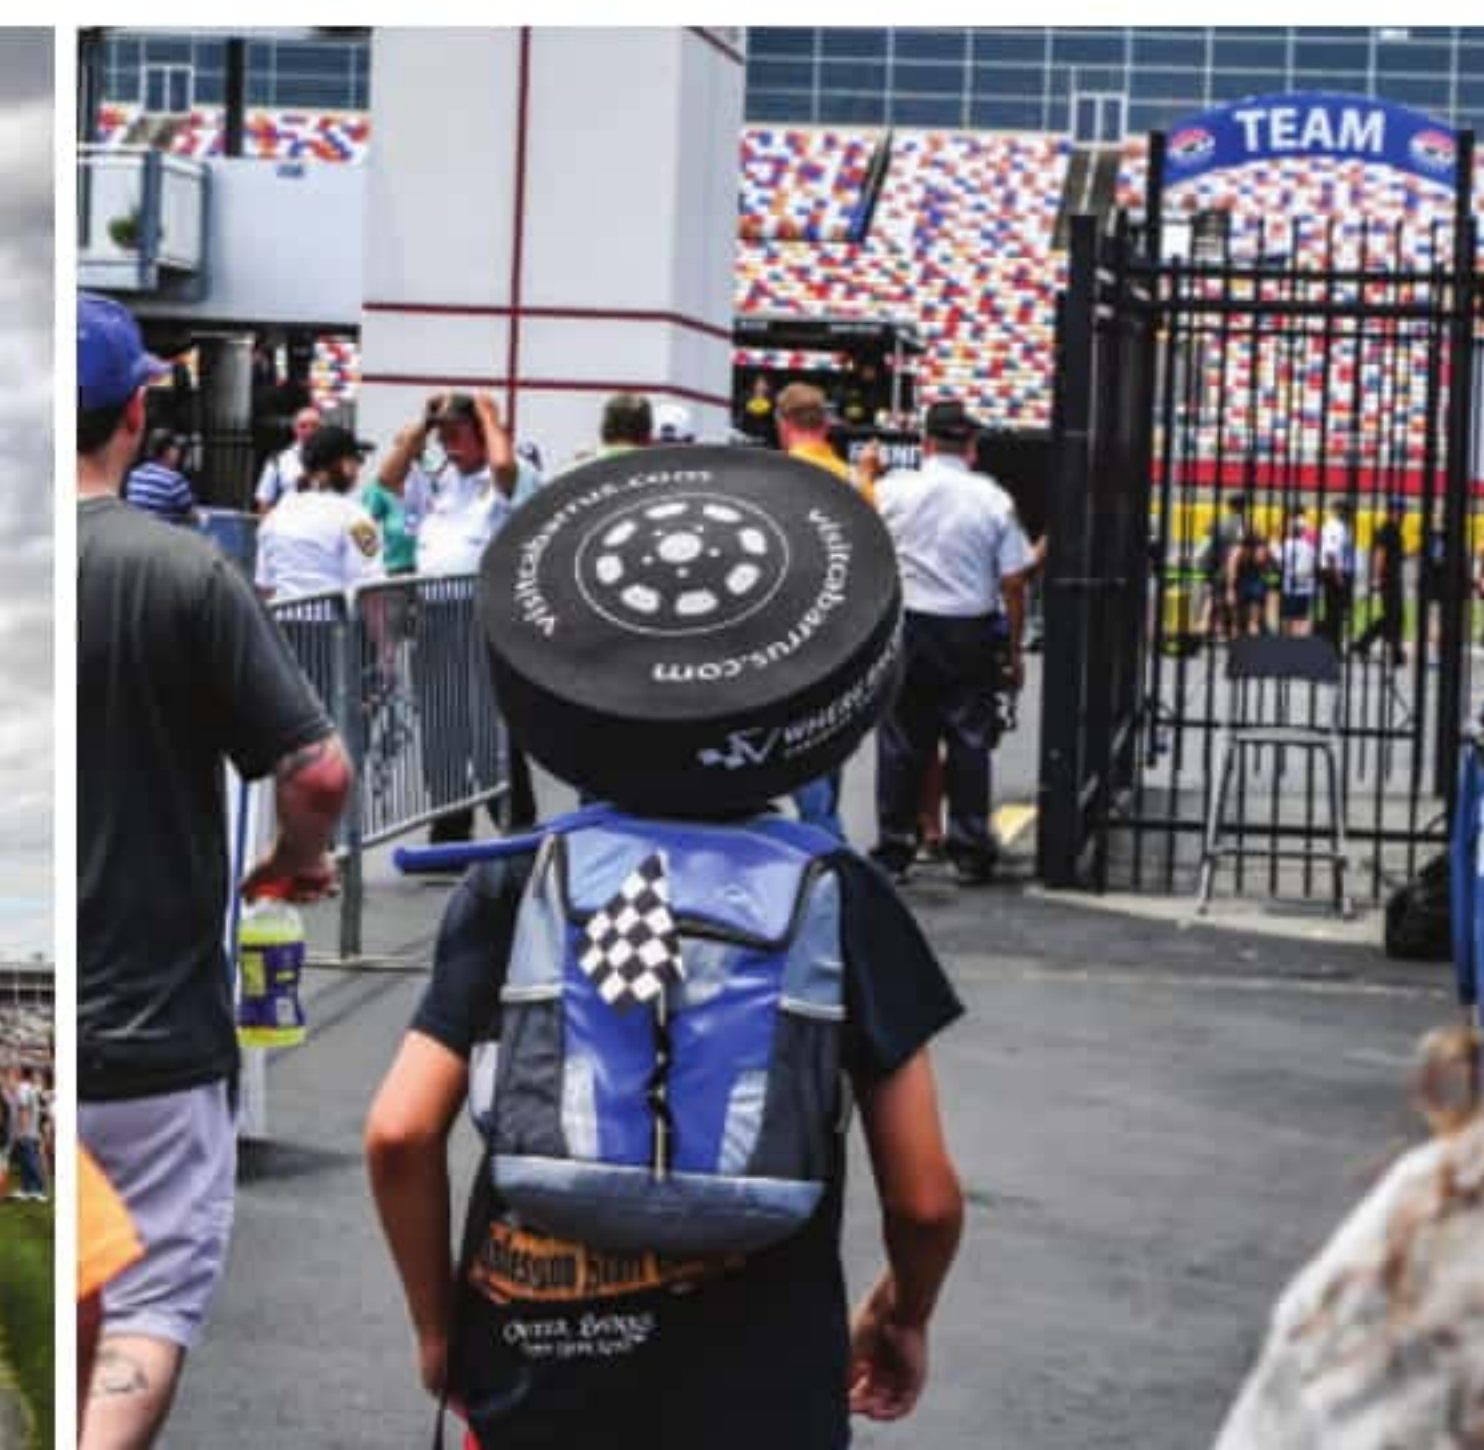

Today, this thriving industry continues to attract motorsports-based businesses, aspiring drivers, adrenaline junkies and fans from all over the world. Whether you're a race weekend regular or planning a visit for the first time, the speed scene is something you just can't miss.

Cabarrus County is the only place on earth where you can experience an awe-inspiring event at Charlotte Motor Speedway, step inside race shops, tour legendary driver Dale Earnhardt's hometown and be immersed in the sport's history at the NASCAR Hall of Fame—all in one visit.

For the ultimate in fast fun, combine these high-octane adventures with karting, ride and drive experiences, short-track excitement, car shows, motorsports museums and more.

Cabarrus County is "Where Racing Lives," and here, everyone lives to race.

Speed!

BEHIND-THE-SCENES

The NASCAR season runs from February to November. In Cabarrus County, the work that gets teams to and from the track each week never ends.

Inside NASCAR Race Shops, pit crews train and drivers prepare. Teams strategize for Sunday in hopes of bringing home a win on Monday. Race cars are engineered, fabricated and fine-tuned with safety and speed leading the list of priorities. But these teams don't run on horsepower alone. They're fueled by fans and welcome visitors for a glimpse of what goes into preparing for race day.

Map out your own Race Shop Tour using the Guide on pages 56-57. Visiting during Charlotte Motor Speedway race weeks? Call or go online for details on special hours and events.

Rick Hendrick founded All-Star Racing in 1984 fielding a single team with five full-time employees and 5,000 square feet. One mile from Charlotte Motor Speedway, the organization is now home to a record 12 car owner championships in NASCAR's premier division and fields four NASCAR Cup teams with drivers William Byron, Alex Bowman, Chase Elliott and seven-time champion, Jimmie Johnson. Watch teams at work inside viewing areas of the 9/24 and 48/88 shops, see cars on display and snag exclusive souvenirs like tires used in competition at the Museum & Team Store.

CHIP GANASSI RACING

Get a glimpse of cars on display and the latest adjustments happening inside the vast fan viewing area as crews prepare for the next race. Chip Ganassi has been a fixture in the auto racing industry for over 25 years and fields three NASCAR teams: No. 1 of Jamie McMurray and No. 42 of Kyle Larson in the Cup Series along with the No. 42 driven by John Hunter Nemechek in the Xfinity Series. Find the latest tees, die-cast replicas, caps and souvenirs for your favorite driver on campus in the Team Store.

ROUSH FENWAY RACING

Led by racing legend Jack Roush, Roush Fenway Racing boasts eight championships in NASCAR's top three divisions and has established itself as a dominant force in the sport. The driver lineup includes Trevor Bayne and Ricky Stenhouse Jr. in the NASCAR Cup Series along with Ryan Reed, TJ Majeski, Chase Briscoe and Austin Cindric in Xfinity Series rides. Experience sights and sounds of RFR first-hand in the pit practice viewing area and relive some of the greatest moments inside the Museum and 100-seat theatre, then grab official apparel and collectibles at the Team Store.

Stewart-Haas Racing is a title-winning NASCAR team co-owned by three-time Cup champion Tony Stewart and Gene Haas, founder of Haas Automation – the largest CNC machine tool builder in North America. SHR fields four entries in the NASCAR Cup series with drivers Aric Almirola, Clint Bowyer, Kurt Busch and Kevin Harvick. Cole Custer's full time Xfinity Series ride is joined by a part-time entry—the No. 98 Ford Mustang. Stop in to view cars on display, pick up the latest gear and observe crews building cars for on-track competition.

THE DALE TRAIL

SOCIAL SPOTTER

Share your journey using #DaleTrail

Dive deeper into high-speed history in Kannapolis—hometown of NASCAR Hall of Fame Inductee, Dale Earnhardt, Sr. The Dale Trail is a self-guided tour featuring points of interest from The Intimidator's childhood and racing legacy.

Get your motor running with these three stops along The Dale Trail.

CURB MUSEUM FOR MUSIC AND MOTORSPORTS

Racing enthusiast, Mike Curb is owner and founder of Curb Records, a label including greats like Wynonna Judd, Hank Williams, Jr., Tim McGraw and a host of stars of tomorrow. Curb has also owned cars driven by NASCAR legends including Dale Earnhardt, Richard Petty and Dale Jarrett. See unique rides like the #2 car Dale won his first Cup championship in and the famous #43 car Petty raced to his 199th victory.

DALE EARNHARDT PLAZA

Located on the corner of Main Street and West B Street is a park dedicated in Dale Earnhardt's memory. The centerpiece of the plaza is a nine-foot, 900-pound bronze statue of Dale as his hometown knew him — dressed in Wrangler jeans, cowboy boots and a creased, short-sleeve, button-down shirt with sunglasses in the pocket. Take note of the subtle, symbolic elements — benches in groups of three, an oval layout and more.

PUNCHY'S DINER

Complete with chrome barstools, this retro, 1950's-style diner serves a simple tomato sandwich just the way Dale liked it—with Miracle Whip on white bread. Dale never forgot where he came from, and that meant a lot to the people of Kannapolis. This family-friendly restaurant is cooking up the kind of classic, southern fare that your entire crew will enjoy. Fuel up for breakfast or lunch, grab a Root Beer Float to go, and head out to the stops along The Dale Trail.
